HOW'S YOUR LIVER?

Is the oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy liver. When the liver is torpid the bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, torpid liver, constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the stomach and bowels.

RECREATION IN CHINA.

But Little Relief from the Monotony of Existence.—Decline in Morals.

We once asked a famous coleopteris whether he did not regret having devoted his life to such a narrow study "No," he emphatically replied, "if could live my life again I would devote it to one family of beetles." A melancholy example of the domination of one idea. Of all civilized people the most conspicuously in want of relief from the monotony of their ideas are the Chinese The Hindoos have their frequent poojahs which make great inroads into their working time; the Mohammedans have their festivals; the Burmese are always gay, and require very little pretext to have a "pooay," or entertainment; the Manilla Indians and Mestisos lead quite a merry life; and the Japanese we know to be the best holiday makers in the world. But when we come to the Chinese we see a plod, plod from year's end to year's end; and with the exception of a day or two's ruinous dissipation on the occasion of a marriage or a funeral, and a little dumb show ceremony at the family grave, the ordinary life of a Chinese appears to foreign eyes as dull as that of a galley slave.

Even the rich are little better off than the poor, owing to the absence of means of recreation and their inability to enjoy those that do or might exist. An official dares not attend a theatre for fear of being denounced and to go for half a day's picnic would expose him to the attacks of the censors. The amusements of these Chinese officials must, therefore be kept within the privacy of their own walls, and unless they have a strong taste for literature or curio collecting, they must often be tempted to fall back on personal intrigue of various kinds, merely to occupy the vacant chambers of the mind. Is it this that causes high Chinese officials to engage themselves in the pettiest details which in other countries would be relegated to quite subordinate functionaries? The absence of healthy recreation appears to act on the mind as the privation of vegetable diet does on the body: in the one case the defect may be remedied by lime juice; what is the cure for the other?

The aversion to physical exercise partly innate and partly imposed by the oppressive canons of social etiquette, is perhaps the most morally destructive of all forms of the privation of amusement Moral health has great difficulty in maintaining itself without frequent and copious draughts from the refreshing springs of nature; and the life that is mewed up between brick walls, in an atmosphere laden with odious effluvia, is of necessity thrown back on its own inner darkness, with what consequences it is easy to imagine. All forms of open air amusement are, therefore, to be considered as boons to the Chinese, and if on the love of gambling, already well developed, could be engrafted the love of true sport, it would be a sign of that awakening from the sleep of ages which a celebrated essayist has lately enlarged upon.—Chinese Times.

LOVE'S ATONEMENT.

For months before, the elite of the country for miles round had been on the tip of expectation for this summer-night festival, and it had fulfilled their hopes, for Mrs. Claremont seldom did things by halves.

And the belle of the ball? Well, there might be other faces there as beautiful in their own way as Leah le Clare's, but none which attracted one half the attention.

Perhaps there was another reason for this than Leah's rare pale loveliness. If there was it was this:

That none expected to see her there, for everyone knew how poor the inmates of the little cottage on Lardon Road were known to be.

Why, this slender stately girl earned their living by the untiring work of her fingers, and by giving lessons on the one valuable article they possessed, a piano.

Neither Leah nor her mother ever hinted a time had been when every article in their luxurious home had fully equalled the piano.

What was the astonishment of all to see Leah le Clare among the most favored of Mrs. Claremont's guests.

Envious people found it all they could do to hide under a faint society smile their chagrin, as they took in every detail of her costume.

It was very simple and exquisite.

A robe of Indian muslin, so fine it seemed almost a cobweb, and heavily embroidered in gold.

One man watched her with passionate loving eyes—Guy Howard, the cousin and presumptive heir of James Howard, the master of Howard Hall.

The first meeting of Leah le Clare and Guy Howard had been this: Guy had broken his ankle, and it was to the little cottage on the Lardon Road they had taken him, and he had spent one never-to-be-forgotten week there, and had ended by falling in love with Leah le Clare.

But he knew his delicate cousin, Eunice Howard, loved him; the knowledge of his love for another would hasten the final end.

His cousin, rather his father's cousin, had been more than a father to him. He could sacrifice, or rather, put his own happiness aside for awhile, and trust to Heaven that no one would win his darling before—ah, pitiful thought!—sweet Eunice Howard's death.

But to-night his love had overmastered him. He had been with Leah under the shadow of drooping trees early in the evening.

"Leah, my darling—my beautiful one—you cannot dream how I love you! Leah, darling, can you love me in return?"

The fair pale face drooped low, the dark lashes swept the rounded cheeks.

"My love," he said, "have I hoped in vain? Leah, answer me—can you give me your love in return?"

The sweet dark eyes were raised, the delicate cheeks flushed faintly red.

"I do love you, Guy," she answered.

The next moment she was folded in his arms, his kisses falling softly on sweet red lips and low white brow, and neither of the lovers dreamed that a dark vindictive face was watching them through the intervening shrubbery.

The watcher was Harley Vernon, second cousin to Guy himself, and first cousin to his uncle, James Howard.

He had met and loved Leah le Clare himself, and had asked her to be his wife, and she had gently but most decidedly answered him "No."

He drew back now, but only to change his position, and an almost fiendish delight lit up his face when he heard Guy plead with Leah for a secret engagement.

Leah le Clare.

"You cannot trust me this far, Leah?" he heard Guy say. "Darling, I would trust you to death."

"Can you not trust me, Leah?" her lover said again; "believe me, love, I would be proud to take you by the hand in the crowded assemblage there and proclaim you my promised wife."

He was afraid to tell her that for another woman's sake he held his love a secret.

Before they parted he had won Leah's consent to a secret engagement.

* * * * *

One month later a great silence seemed to fill Howard Hall, for the doctors had decided that Eunice Howard's frail hold on life was quietly slipping away.

She lies now with a look of eager expectation on her face. Her father had left her but a minute before—left her to seek her cousin Guy, and he and Guy were standing at that very moment in the library together, and Mr. Howard was speaking in a low voice, but very earnestly.

"You will not refuse, Guy," he said. "I know it is rather strange, but it is her dying request. She wishes to die your wife. The doctors give her twenty-four hours to live. Guy, you will grant her request and let her die happy. You cannot refuse, my boy?"

"No," Guy answered slowly, though his face grew strangely white. "It shall be as she wishes."

One hour later, the voice of God's minister bound Guy and Eunice Howard in the holy bonds that nothing but death itself could sever.

A faint smile crossed Eunice's lips; her eyes lit up with happiness.

"I am so happy, Guy!" she murmured, as he bent his head and kissed her lips, and then with her hand still clasped in his she fell asleep.

The doctor bent over her, his face paling for a moment.

"She will not die to-day," he said; "she may live for months."

"Live for months!" Guy's face grew, if possible, more pallid, heavy beads of perspiration stood on his brow.

"My God!" he cried to himself. "Oh, Leah, my proud, beautiful darling, what will I do—what will I say?"

Yet even in that moment, and realizing all this meant to him, he did not for a moment begrudge Eunice the new lease of life given to her.

"How can I tell my darling?" he cried again.

Another was before him with the story—Harley Vernon—but not one word of Eunice's illness did he mention.

She bore it bravely, but he noticed the sudden pallor of her face, the agony that came to her eyes when the look of doubt faded slowly.

"You mean," she said, "that Guy Howard is married?"

"Yes; to his cousin Eunice. They have been engaged for years, but whether they love each other is another matter. Guy would be a madman to give up the inheritance of Howard Hall, and certainly this was the surest way he could gain it."

But she would know it from other lips than Harley Vernon's, and a few hours later, pale to the very lips, she stood before the minister who had married them.

The kind minister looked at her curiously—at the beautiful white face and dark anguished eyes.

"Yes," he answered gently; "I married him and his cousin to-day."

"Thank you," she answered; "that is all I wish to know."

Next day Guy went to the little cottage. Leah and her mother were gone.

* * * * *

Eunice Howard was dead. For six short months she had lingered after her marriage.

Guy was abroad searching for Leah le Clare, when a letter came to him from his cousin and father-in-law.

"Come home, my boy; I would like you to be here at the present time, when a great joy has come into my life. Guy, I am married again. Old fool, you will say, no doubt; but wait till you see my darling."

Guy arrived at Howard Hall, and bent over the hand of his cousin's wife—Leah le Clare.

When he left her with a cold good-bye, and the slightest touch of her fingertips with his own, Leah grew white to the very lips.

"The coward, he fled!" she cried; "did he fear I would tell my husband?"

Before long, death entered Howard Hall again, and across the telegraph-wires there flashed this message:

"Come home at once. Your cousin died suddenly."

He went—went to hear a will read that left to the testator's wife, Leah Howard, every shilling of his vast wealth. He was disinherited. His name was not even mentioned.

"I married him and his cousin to-day."

He went to Leah in the pain of the moment.

"I wish you the happiness you deserve," he said; "for my part, I will enter Howard Hall no more."

He turned to go, but she raised her head, that had drooped while he was speaking.

"Before you go," she said, "let me say this—that never to your cousin did I speak of your treatment of me—never did I breathe one word of the past."

He looked at her a moment.

"It makes little difference now; he never mentioned my name."

"And yet of the insult—"

"Do not repeat that, Mrs. Howard, for you must know the truth now."

"Yes: I know that while engaged to another, you——"

"Leah, you do not believe that. I never was engaged to Eunice, but to please her we were married at what was believed to be her death-bed. My reason for not telling of our engagement was simply because her days were even then numbered, and knowing she loved me, I feared it would hasten her death. But your revenge is complete."

For one year Leah was mistress of Howard Hall, and then another will was found—a will signed on the very day of John Howard's death, and with the will this letter:

"I write this letter in explanation of what may seem strange in the sudden change of my will. Harley Vernon made me believe that Guy wrecked another life when he married Eunice—that another should have been his wife, instead of my innocent child, but lying here something tells me Guy Howard could not be a villain, and so—so I will trust my boy—the boy I have loved as a son—who has been a son to me, JAMES HOWARD."

Leah placed the will in his hand.

The next moment it was scattered in pieces at her feet.

"You are still mistress of Howard Hall," he said, "and I will say farewell. We part as friends now, at least."

"Guy—Guy!" she cried, holding out her hands, then letting them drop by her side.

"Darling! Leah, can it be——"

"It is," she said, and as he drew her into his arms, the past was atoned

ABOUT WOMEN.

—Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr will spend the summer in England and Scotland.

—Miss Louise Imogen Guiney is about to bring out a new volume of poems.

—Miss Dorothea Roberts's "Two Royal Lives" describes the life of the Imperial Prince and Princess of Germany.

—About three thousand five hundred women are employed in the permanent Post Office establishment in Great Britain, in all capacities.

—"John Strange Winter," the popular novelist, is Mrs. Arthur Stannard, and she is giving readings from her own works, a la Dickens.

—Miss Clara M. Fowler will present to the city of Concord, N. H., a building for a free public library, in memory of her parents, the late Judge and Mrs. Asa Fowler.

—Miss Luella Varney, of Cleveland, is a rising sculptor. She has recently finished a bust of Bishop Gilmore, of that city, which exhibits much force and is a striking likeness.

—Vassar College has just conferred the honorary degree of LL.D. on Mrs. Christine Ladd Franklin, of Baltimore, who had previously been appointed fellow of the Johns Hopkins University.

—Mrs. A. K. T. R. Carey has invented a very simple cover for tumblers or jars. It is made of a tough paper, neatly printed, with space left for marking the variety or date of making, and fastens securely at once.

—Miss Grace Howard has gone to the Crow Creek Agency in Dakota, where she will fulfil a two years' mission as instructor of the Indians. A school-house will be erected there and a school established.

—Miss Alice Freeman, President of Wellesley College, has received five hundred and eighty applications from young women wishing to enter Wellesley next year. There are only one hundred places possible at present.

—Miss Agnata Ramsay, of Girton College, has been awarded the first rank in classics at Cambridge, England. She has surpassed all the male students in classics, being the only one of either sex to pass in the first division.

—Lilian Whiting says: "The time has almost gone by for the discussion of whether women want or do not want the ballot. They will have it whether they desire it or not. And the true wisdom is to study to find how to use this extension of power, that is sure to come in the near future."

—An attempt to indict Mrs. Barber in the Federal Courts, for illegal voting at the last general election in New York state, having failed, an effort has just been made to indict her in the State Courts. This, also, has failed, and the Court has adjourned, leaving Mrs. Barber mistress of the situation.

—Ruth E. Wilson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has patented an "illuminated flower piece." The invention consists in providing the piece with a reflector in keeping with the design, with jets of light introduced before the reflector, in such a way that air-chambers intervene between the flame and the flowers.

—Mrs. Mary Virginia Terhune (Marion Harland), has gone with her family to Sunnybank, on Lake Ramapo, northern New Jersey. Such leisure as she can get she will devote to a novel which she has been trying for six years to find time to write. Dr. Terhune will pass some weeks in the Adirondacks; and both he and his wife will accept the hospitality of a friend who has a country-seat on Lake Winnepisseogee, for a week.

—Killing a wife is not very severely punished in Massachusetts. In the Superior Court at New Bedford, recently, Thomas Fitzgibbons, of Fall River, for killing his wife, was convicted of manslaughter, and sentenced to the House of Correction for two years. But when a wife, rendered desperate by years of cruelty, killed her husband in New York State last year, she was hung, and her daughter, only for keeping her mother's secret, is more severely punished than this wife-killer.

A Mother's Consecration.

A lady contributes to the Watchman and Reflector a significant reminiscence of the late Rev. Dr. Stevens, the veteran missionary in Burmah:

"During his last visit to this country, we had the honor of a visit from him at my mother's home in Auburndale, when he gave a most touching account of his recent return for the first time to his birthplace in Georgia. He had met there an aged lady, who told him how in his infancy his mother had sent for her pastor, and, holding the infant in her arms, requested him to dedicate the child in solemn prayer to the work of foreign missions. Of this act of his mother Dr. Stevens learned for the first time, after nearly forty years of missionary labor. 'I now see,' said he, 'why I was drawn so irresistably to the missionary work. It was the answer to my mother's prayers.'"

GREAT YOUNG MEN.

Showing That Youth is No Bar to Distinction.

Charles James Fox was in Parliament at nineteen.

The great Cromwell left the University of Cambridge at eighteen.

John Bright never was at any school a day after he was fifteen years old.

Gladstone was in Parliament at twenty-two, and at twenty-four was Lord of the Treasury.

Lord Bacon graduated at Cambridge when sixteen, and was called to the bar at twenty-one.

Peel was in Parliament at twenty-one, and Palmerston was Lord of the Admiralty at twenty-three.

Henry Clay was in the Senate of the United States at twenty-nine, contrary to the Constitution.

John Hampton, after graduating at Oxford, was a student at law in the Inner Temple at nineteen.

Gustavus Adolphus ascended the throne at sixteen; before he was thirty-four he was one of the great rulers of Europe.

Judge Story was at Harvard at fifteen, in Congress at twenty-nine, and Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States at thirty-two.

Martin Luther had become largely distinguished at twenty-four, and at fifty-six had reached the topmost round of his world-wide fame.

Conde conducted a memorable campaign at seventeen, and at twenty-two he and Turenne also, were of the most illustrious men of their times.

William H. Seward commenced the practice of law at twenty-one, and at thirty-one was President of a State Convention, and at thirty-seven Governor of New York.

Washington was a distinguished Colonel in the army at twenty-two, early in public affairs, commander of the forces at forty-three, and President at fifty-seven.

Maurice of Saxony died at thirty-two, conceded to have been one of the profoundest statesmen and one of the ablest Generals which Christendom had seen.

Napoleon at twenty-five commanded the army of Italy. At thirty he was not only one of the most illustrious Generals of all time, but one of the great lawgivers of the world. At forty-six he saw Waterloo.

The great Leo X. was Pope at thirty-eight. Having finished his academic training, he took the office of Cardinal at eighteen—only twelve months younger than was Charles James Fox when he entered Parliament.

Only one civilian out of the Presidents of this country gained his first election after he was sixty, and that was James Buchanan. The chance for the Presidency after sixty is small and growing less.

William Pitt entered the ministry at fourteen, was Chancellor of the Exchequer at twenty-two, Prime Minister at twenty-four, and so continued for twenty years, and when thirty-five was the most powerful uncrowned head in Europe.

From the earliest years of Queen Elizabeth to the latest of Queen Victoria, England has had scarcely an able statesman who did not leave the University by the time he was twenty, and many of them left at an earlier age.

The late Lord Beaconsfield left the cloister and entered the great world early—as did John Bright—and commenced his political career by writing a book at seventeen, in which he predicted that he would be Prime Minister.

Hamilton was in King's College at sixteen; when seventeen he made a notable address on public affairs to the citizens of New York; at twenty he was intrusted with a most important mission to General Gates, was in Congress at twenty-five, and Secretaay of the Treasury at thirty-five.

John Quincy Adams, at the age of fourteen, was Secretary to Mr. Dana, then Minister at the Russian Court; at thirty he was himself Minister to Prussia; at thirty-five he was Minister to Russia; at forty-eight he was Minister to England; at fifty-six he was Secretary of State, and President at fifty-seven.

There have been twenty-two Presidents of the United States. Five of them were elected at fifty-seven, and six attained that great office before the age of fifty. Three military men past sixty have been elected; two died very soon, and the other was General Jackson, and he was but sixty-one when elected.

Jonathan Edwards acquired early renown was the greatest metaphysician in America, and as unsurpassed by any one in Europe. He commenced the reading of Latin when six years old. At ten he wrote a remarkable paper upon the immortality of the soul. At the age of thirteen he entered Yale College, where he graduated four years later.

General Grant was elected President at forty-six. But when a very young man, in the Mexican war, he so distinguished himself at the battle of Molino del Rey that General Scott named him for promotion on the field, and at the storming of Chapultepec his courage and ability caused him to be specially commended by General Worth, and for those young acts of skill and valor he was made Captain in the regular army. He was but thirty-nine when he gained his victory at Fort Donelson, and only forty-one when he took Vicksburg.

BILL OF FARE.

The Large Amount of Provisions For an Ocean Steamer.—What Ocean Travelers Drink.

The bar on an ocean vessel is one of the most profitable features of the ship, and it has been said that $5,000 has frequently been cleared on one voyage by a first-class steamer in the busy season. The possibilities in this direction may be judged from the fact that the Etruria puts on board at Liverpool for the round voyage 1,100 bottles of champagne, 850 bottles of claret, 6,000 bottles of ale, 2,500 bottles of porter, 4,500 bottles of mineral water and 650 bottles of various spirits, while the annual consumption of the Cunard Line is as follows: 8,030 quarts and 17,613 pints of champagne, 13,041 quarts and 7,310 pints of claret, with 9,200 bottles of other wines, 488,344 bottles of ale and porter, 174,921 bottles of mineral waters, 34,000 bottles of spirits, 34,360 pounds of tobacco, 63,340 cigars and 56,875 cigarettes.

Lemons are used on an average at the rate of 1¼ per head a day, and apples when in season at the rate of 2¼ per head per day, while the consumption of oranges is about 3 per head per day.

A very important element in the expense of a trip is crockery, which is broken at the rate of 900 plates, 280 cups, 438 saucers, 1,213 tumblers, 200 wine glasses, 27 decanters and 63 water bottles in a single voyage, from which one might infer that the passengers fought the whole way over. The broken watter bottles is the only part we don't regret.

The Etruria's total consumption of coal is 300 tons per day, or 12 tons per hour. Besides the coal, 130 gallons of oil are used daily for journals, bearings, &c. Her crew is as follows: Captain, 6 officers, surgeon, purser, 46 seamen, carpenter and joiner, boatswain and mate, 2 masters-at-arms, 12 engineers, 112 firemen and trimmers, 72 stewards, 6 stewardesses, 24 cooks, bakers and assistants; in all 287 hands. The amount of provisions, groceries, &c., on board at the time of sailing is very large. For a single passage to the westward with 547 cabin passengers and a crew of 287 persons, she had, when leaving Liverpool on 28th August last, the following quantities of provisions: 12,500 lbs. fresh beef, 700 lbs. corned beef, 5,230 lbs. mutton, 850 lbs. lamb, 350 lbs. veal, 350 lbs. pork, 2,000 lbs. fresh fish, 600 fowls, 300 chickens, 100 ducks, 50 geese, 80 turkeys, 200 brace grouse, 15 tons potatoes, 30 hampers of vegetables, 280 quarts of ice cream, 1,000 quarts milk and 11,500 eggs. In groceries alone there were over two hundred different articles, including (for the round voyage of twenty-two days) 650 lbs. tea, 1,200 lbs. coffee, 1,600 lbs. white sugar, 2,800 lbs. moist sugar, 750 lbs. pulverized sugar, 1,500 lbs. cheese, 2,000 lbs. butter, 3,500 lbs. of ham, 1,000 lbs. bacon.

As regards the consumption on board the Cunard fleet for one year it can almost be said that their sheep and oxen "feed on a thousand hills," for its ships consume no less than 4,656 sheep, 1,800 lambs, and 2,474 oxen, an array of flocks and herds surpassing in extent the possessions of many a pastoral patriarch of ancient times.

This is equivalent to 2,091,754 pounds of meat, or four pounds per minute. The passengers consume 831,693 eggs, or more than 1½ per minute, and drink 21,000 pounds of tea in the year and 71,700 pounds of coffee, sweetened by 296,100 pounds of sugar; while the following articles also figure largely; One and one-half tons of mustard, 1½ of pepper, 7,216 bottles pickles, 8,000 tins sardines, 30 tons salt cod dumpling, 4,192 four-pound jars jams, 15 tons marmalade, 22 tons raisins, currants and figs, 13 tons split peas, 15 tons pearl barley, 17 tons rice, 34 tons oatmeal, 460 tons flour, 23 tons biscuit, 33 tons salt, 48,902 loaves of bread 8 pounds each, 53 tons ham, 20 tons bacon, 15 tons cheese, 930 tons potatoes, 24,075 fowls, 4,230 ducks, 2,200 turkeys, 2,200 geese, 31,312 tablets Pears' soap, 3,484 pounds Windsor soap, 10 tons yellow soap, in addition to the above mentioned items from the bar.

The heaviest item in the annual consumption is naturally coal of which are burned 350,764 tons, or almost 1,000 tons for every day in the year. The consumption of engine oil is 104,043 gallons; of burning oils, 23,920 gallons; of paint oil, 9,240 gallons; of waste, 90 tons; of white lead, 51 tons; of red lead 12 tons. With respect to the aggregate employment of labor by the Cunard Company, it requires 34 captains, 146 officers, 628 engineers, boiler-makers and carpenters, 665 seamen, 916 firemen, 900 stewards, 32 stewardesses, 42 women to keep the upholstery and linen in order, with 1,100 of a shore gang; or about 4,500 people to run the ships, which traverse yearly a distance equal to five times that between the earth and the moon.

A MONOPOLY IN ENVELOPES.

How the Manufacturers Are Seeking a Monopoly.

A strong combination has been formed by the leading envelope manufacturers of the country for the purpose of maintaining prices and controlling the industry. This has been brought about by a resurrection of the Standard Envelope Company an organization of similar purport, which was formed some five or six years ago, but which soon collapsed. The concerns which compose the combination are White, Corbin & Co., Whitcomb Envelope Company, Plimpton Manufacturing Company, Holyoke Envelope Company, Powers Paper Company, Logan, Swift & Brigham Envelope Company, J. G. Preble Co., Berlin & Jones Envelope Company, Samuel Raynor & Co.; P. F. Kellogg & Co., Springfield Envelope Company and Wolf Brothers.

These firms represent about 90 per cent of the productive capacity of the entire country, and control all the machinery for envelope manufacture as well as the patents thereon. The members of the pool are bound by stringent rules. They are restricted to a certain percentage of their productive capacity, and are also bound not to deviate in any manner from the pool price list under penalties of $250 for each offense, and twenty-five cents per 1,000 on the quantity sold below price. Bonds, both to the company and to each other, are required of the members to insure the payment of fines and penalties. The executive committee is given authority to examine, at any time, the books of any member of the pool in order to render detection of offenders easy. The agreement by which the pool is formed went into effect July 1, and is to continue for five years. Under the new list prices will be advanced from five to fifteen cents per 1,000 on commercial sizes and fifteen to twenty-five on government sizes, but retail prices will not be affected at present.

An Extraordinary Testament.

Probably one of the most remarkable wills ever made was drawn up in Pittsburg on February 17, 1887. The testator, Ambrose Retharge, who is fifty-two years of age, after disposing of $10,000 in real estate, directs as follows: "I direct that my body be taken to St. Michael's Church, and, after the proper religious services are performed, and it be given in charge of my family, who will convey it to Samson's Crematory, and there have it burned to ashes, the ashes to be put in a small bottle and given in charge of the German Consul at Pittsburg. This gentleman will then forward my ashes to the Consul in New York, who will give them in charge of the captain of the German steamer Elbe, who will place them securely in his ship for the ocean voyage. When in mid ocean direct the captain to request one of the passengers to dress in a seafaring suit and ascend, with my ashes in his hand, to the top of the topmost mast, and, after pronouncing a last benediction, to extract the cork from the bottle and cast its contents to the four winds of heaven."

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1887.

Give one day to your country and go to the polls next Tuesday.

Voters should bear in mind that there are three separate tickets to be voted next Tuesday. One is headed "State," and has the name of the candidates for State Treasurer on it. Another is headed "Judiciary," and has the names of the candidates for Judge of Supreme Court and Associate Judge thereon. The third is headed "County" and contains the names of the local candidates.

The republicans hope to carry Pennsylvania by a large majority this year, to give them a boom for next year in the Presidential campaign. Let every Democrat do his duty towards keeping the majority down, and possibly overcoming it altogether. The local fights among the republicans in Philadelphia and Allegheny make it possible for the democrats to carry the state, but if voters stay at home it can't be done.

Columbia county lost $4,500 by the failure of the Revenue at last session of the legislature. The bill passed both branches and would have become a law, but the Governor discovered that it had not been signed by the President of the Senate and so it failed. Its failure was through the negligence of a republican official. Every democrat in this county is personally interested in rebuking a party whose carelessness has cost us $4,500. Go to the polls on Tuesday and vote for J. Ross Thompson for Supreme Judge, and Bernard J McGrann for State Treasurer, and for the full local ticket, and let Columbia county show by a rousing majority that such blunders will receive no endorsement here.

BROOKS HIGH LICENSE LAW.

To return to the Brookes High License Law for a further discussion of its provisions.

The Act, as before noticed, has no repealing clause, and it displaces previous legislation on the subject of vending liquors only so far as its provisions clearly take the place of prior Acts: And this notwithstanding that the law is not a supplement, but is "An Act to restrain and regulate the sale of vinous and spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixtures thereof:" and the first section of the Act is as follows, to-wit:

"SECTION 1. Be it enacted, &c. That it shall be unlawful to keep or maintain any house, room or place, hotel, inn or tavern, where any vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof, are sold by retail, except a license therefor shall have been previously obtained as hereinafter provided."

Under this section some Judges hold that no restaurant or saloon can be licensed at all; others hold that the law relating to the licensing of restaurants, saloons or eating-houses remain as before. It is to be feared that the Judges may construe the law, unconsciously, no doubt, according to their several individual opinions. But under this section two things must be true: First, a house can be licensed, a room can be licensed, a place can be licensed; and second, the licensee can sell therein and thereat any vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof, or any one or more of them as he sees fit, excluding if he chooses vinous and spirituous liquors: And his house, room or place need not have any thing but conveniences for drinking, whereby the public is accommodated. His house is the present restaurant; but the room or place is a mere corner grogery and may be, perhaps will be according to locality, altogether disreputable and disgraceful.

In a statute so loosely drawn as this, dropping a name does not seem to drop the thing, or if it does, drops it to a lower place. And if it should be held that every license granted for "any house, room or place" must be for the sale of vinous, spirituous, malt and brewed liquors, then this act is the worst one ever put on the statute book. As to limitations there are none as to the house, there are none as to the place, as to the room you are prohibited from selling in one wherein groceries are sold at wholesale or retail. But the Act makes no distinction—you get a license to sell vinous, pirituous, malt and brewed liquors and any admixture thereof, in "any house, room or place, hotel, inn or tavern" set out in your petition.

But the word "place," also, is used with equal carelessness, as other words or designations upon which comment has been made. We have seen that by the first section a man can license and keep a place; in the fourth the "petition shall contain" "The particular place for which a license is desired, and also the place of birth of the applicant, and also that the place to be licensed is, &c.," in every case, the word being used in a different sense.

Although there are several other features of the law which might be made the subject of just animadversion I forbear, except as to one. While the Act announces itself to be "An Act to restrain and regulate the sale of" liquors, yet it is so constructed as to be An Act to increase and and make popular the sale of liquors. The whole community is interested in the granting of licenses and in the increase of liquor sellers, and in the multiplication of houses, rooms and places where liquors are to be sold. For in cities of the first class four-fifths of the licenses go to the city and county; in cities of the second and third class, two-fifths to the city and two-fifths to the county; in all other cities or boroughs, three-fifths for the use of the city or borough, and one-fifth for the county; in townships one-half to the township, one fourth to the county and in all cases the remainder to the state. In townships it is to go to the keeping of the roads in good repair; and the county treasurers are to appropriate to their own use commissions on the county dividend. So that every citizen in the county has a bid made to him for the lowering of taxes and the well keeping of public roads. These are proper objects and appeal to the cupidity of everybody, not only to the drinker, but to the temperance man as well. He is equally benefited, and while liquors do not empty his purse, license a tend to keep it fuller by providing a fund heretofore depleting his pocket-book.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The Governor has issued the following proclamation:

The President of the United States having designated by a public proclamation Thursday, the 24th day of November, as a day of general thanksgiving to be observed by the people of the United States, I do cordially recommend the people of this commonwealth to assemble in the several places of worship on the day aforestated to render hearty and united thanks to Almighty God for the goodness and mercy which have been vouchsafed by Him to us as a people during the past year.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed, this 31st day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven, and of the Commonwealth, the one hundred and twelfth.

JAMES A. BEAVER, Governor.

A Vain Attempt.

It is an insult to the intelligence of the people for the republican organs of the state to attempt to make them believe that the success of the democratic party at the next election will in any way imperil the sanctity of the Christian Sabbath or in any way aid the plans of any political element that has communistic tendencies.

There was a time before the democratic party had in latter days been entrusted with power in state and nation, when a policy of misrepresentation, and one which appeals to the prejudices of the people alone, might have been of some avail.

But the people of Pennsylvania today, quietly contemplating a country in peace and prosperity throughout its length and breadth under a democratic administration, and also without much effort of memory recalling the democratic administration of Governor Pattison in Pennsylvania and its record of pure and economical government, are not now likely to be imposed upon by the ridiculous cry raised by desperate leaders and more desperate republican organs to draw public attention away from the very assailable record of the party in power in its administration of state affairs.—Patriot.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. BOSERT, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

The old-time bell rope, which for years has adorned the ceiling of all cars, is to be supplanted by a concealed wire with push bottons, inside and outside the car, only a touch being needed to give the signal. Should a coupling break, the electric connection is severed, and the gong in the cab warns the engineer of the fact. A test of the apparatus has been made on an Erie passenger train, and it has been found to work perfectly.

By a new regulation of the Postoffice Department, which went into effect on the 15th of September, fourth-class mail matter must be sent in wrappers free from any printing, except the name of the person who sends the package and the one to whom it is addressed. In case more than this is added, either by printing or writing, the rates of first-class matter will be charged. No advertisement of any kind whatever is now allowed to be put on the packages.

The American Farmer Free to All Our Subscribers.

All of our subscribers who will pay their subscription accounts to this paper in full to date, and one year in advance, will be presented with one year's subscription to THE AMERICAN FARMER, a sixteen-page agricultural magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmer. The subscription price is $1.00 per year. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest. A large number of our subscribers have taken advantage of this offer, and all are well pleased. tf

COFFEE.

Everybody likes a good cup of coffee but how few there are who get it; not over one-half the coffee brought on the table is fit to drink, and yet you go on and drink it because you can't do any better. Some one perhaps asks you out to dinner and serves a delicious cup of coffee, and you inwardly think how much you would give if you could have such a cup of coffee at home; you feel a little delicacy in asking the housewife how she made it and go home and drink your weak bitter mixture with the best grace you can. And yet properly equipped, good coffee is within the reach of every one. We claim with our "One Minute Coffee Pot" any child 8 years old can make as good a cup of coffee as the most experienced cook, requires no fish skins salt, egg etc. to clear it, it is clear as wine every time and of a rich strong flavor. This is all the space we can give to coffee, the balance to explain we will take pleasure in doing at our store.

FOOT WEAR.

In buying Boots, Shoes, Slippers, or any other kind of foot wear, people will go where they can find the largest assortment to select from, and where they can get the best goods for the least money. Such advantages can be found at the best in an establishment that deals exclusively in foot wear. Almost every general store keeps a few boxes of boots and shoes, but at Dentler's shoe store the stock consists entirely of this line of goods. Boots, Shoes, Slippers, Pumps, Rubbers, Sandals, Gaiters, &c., for Men, Women and Children, occupy shelf after shelf, and even the floor of the large room is stocked with boxes. Here the customer can find all styles, all sizes, all prices, from the heaviest cow hide, to the finest kid, with prices as low as can be found anywhere for the same class of goods. We are provided with implements for removing pegs, and for resetting buttons, so that our goods are made comfortable, and made to fit any foot.

Among the special lines are the W. L. Douglas Shoe for gentlemen, Curtis & Wheeler's Ladies' Fine Shoes, the celebrated Towanda Boot, for men and boys. No trouble to show goods.

Lydia L. Mears, by her next friend, J. P. Sands, vs. Clarence E. Mears.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF COLUMBIA COUNTY, No. 116, MAY TERM, 1887.

To Clarence Mears, respondent above named:

Whereas, upon the petition or libel of the said Lydia L. Mears, above named, a subpœna being awarded by the Court of Common Pleas of said county, a subpœna issued out of the said Court, commanding you, the said Clarence E. Mears, to be and appear at the next regular term of said Court, to show cause, if any you have, why the said libellant should not be divorced from the bonds of matrimony which she has contracted with you, agreeably to the prayer of the petitioner; and, whereas, upon the return of the said subpœna, due proof was made that you could not be found or served with the same in the bailiwick of the Sheriff of said county; whereupon an alias subpœna was awarded by said Court, commanding you to be and appear at the then next regular term of said Court, to answer, &c., as aforesaid, to which the same return was made by the Sheriff.

You are therefore required to be and appear on the first day of regular term of said Court, to be held at Bloomsburg, for the said county, on the first Monday of December next, A. D. 1887, to answer said complaint aforesaid.

Next Tuesday evening, November 8th, Bishop Dubs, of Cleveland, Ohio, will preach in the Evangelical church. Services will begin at seven o'clock. The singing will be conducted by the Evangelical choir of Lightstreet. All are cordially invited. Rev. J. F. Shultz, pastor.

The frolics of Hallowe'en were carried to excess on Monday night. Gates were carried off, and many pranks played that in the eye of the law amount to malicious mischief. There was enough corn wasted to feed a family on mush for a month. At the First National Bank corner nearly a peck was swept up.

The Ninth Regiment Armory at Wilkesbarre was formally opened for use Wednesday of last week. Gov. Beaver and ex-Governors Hoyt and Hartranft were present, as was also the governor's entire staff. A review and dress parade of the regiment was given, followed by a largely attended reception in the evening.

The new two dollar silver certificates with the Hancock vignette are being raised and circulated as ten dollar certificates. A number of them have been discovered in the West. These notes will doubtless be "shoved" in all parts of the country. Look carefully at all certificates of the ten dollar denomination before accepting them.

A character song with very pretty air and words has been sent us by the publishers. The music is by H. P. Danks and words by Miss Jennie Calef, an actress who will shortly appear at the Opera House in one of her plays. Miss Calef appeared here several years ago in "M'Liss," and all who saw her then were much pleased with her acting.

The Sunbury Daily says: A few days ago a Northumberland fisherman caught a three pound bass which had a head not unlike that of a human being. The forehead was prominent, the eyes well set, the "snoot" bent down and the lower jaw wonderfully extended. The head part was taken by a gentleman of Bloomsburg, who is preserving it in a jar.

Mr. B. Frank Keller, of Washington City, and Miss Mercy J. Baldy, of Danville, were united in marriage at Christ Church, Danville, Tuesday of last week. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Geo. C. Hall, rector of Grace Church, Honesdale, and Rev. James L. Maxwell, the present rector of Christ Church. It was the most beautiful and brilliant wedding that ever took place in Danville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fornwald and Rev. and Mrs. Wagner went to Pine township on Tuesday to attend the celebration of the eightieth birthday of Mr. Daniel Fornwald, father of Henry Fornwald. He is well preserved for one of his years, an old-time Democrat, and a reader of the COLUMBIAN. We hope he may live to celebrate many more birthdays in the enjoyment of good health, and the continued preservation of all his faculties.

The following squash story clipped from the Williamsport Sun and Banner, would be hard to beat.

"Rev. D. E. Reed, of Perryville, cut two squashes lately from one vine, one of which weighed 117 pounds and the other 95 pounds. Henry Cupp, of Hepburnville, raised sixteen of the same variety on two vines ranging in weight from 40 to 105 pounds."

One such squash would last a family all winter.

Our lady friends will be interested in knowing that by sending 20c. to pay postage, and 15 top covers of Warner's Safe Yeast (showing that they have used at least 15 packages) to H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y., they can get a 500 page, finely illustrated Cook Bock, free. Such a book, bound in cloth, could not be bought for less than a dollar. It is a wonderfully good chance to get a fine book for the mere postage and the ladies should act promptly.

Hayman and Jennie Hoffman, son and daughter of Moritz Hoffman, a merchant of Wilkesbarre, who was kidnapped some time ago and placed in the Danville insane asylum, were arrested Friday evening, on a charge of false imprisonment and threatening their father's life. The prisoners were locked up in default of bail. This case is exciting considerable interest, as it is generally believed that an effort is being made by the family to defraud the father out of his interest in the clothing establishment by making him out insane.—Ex.

An optician says that the rapid growth of the use of eye-glasses is largely due to the fancy that those adjuncts give a new interest to one's face and improve its appearance; in other words, that it is vanity and not necessity which makes the eye glass popular. There may be some truth in this, but the statement is too broad. Nor does it appear to be true, as others have said, that the eyes of the present generation are more defective than those of the last. Glasses are so generally used now because more attention is paid to the eyes than formerly and the oculist is consulted as regularly as the dentist.

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club consists of the following celebrated artists: Herr Gustav Hille, Solo Violin, Herr Paul Mende, Violin, Mr. Thomas Ryan, Solo Clarinette and Viola, Herr Phillip Rodelberger, Solo Flute and Viola and Mr. Louis Blumenberg, Solo Violoncello. Miss Belle Du Bois, Prima Donna Soprano, is also with them. The Boston Herald says: "While each of the musicians is an artist of first ability, their individuality is so thoroughly merged in their ensemble playing that their work is thoroughly pleasing."

Blooomsburg Opera House, Wednesday evening, November 9th. Don't fail to hear them.

Every Sunday evening people passing to and from church are much annoyed by the crowds of young men and boys that gather on the street corners even in the coldest weather, and in some places block up the sidewalks so that it is almost impossible to pass by them. There is a great deal of swearing to be heard in these crowds, and but little regard is paid to the passing of ladies. The corner of Main and Market streets is the principal spot where these loafers congregate, and the sidewalks in front of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches are always filled with them. Those who do not attend church should at least have some respect for people who do, and if they do not, they should be made to do so. There should be a stop put to this.

Since the death of our lamented townsman, David Lowenberg, the large business that he had built up by many years of energetic effort, has been conducted under the management and supervision of his eldest son, Louis, who for a long time was his father's trusted and able assistant. He became thoroughly acquainted with the business, and with the wants of the public, so that when it became necessary for him to take charge of the store he was perfectly competent to do so. He resigned his position in the Railway Mail Service last month, a position which he filled with great credit to himself, and in which he passed an examination seldom if ever excelled. Under his management the immense stock of goods is kept up in every department, and the establishment continues to be what it has been for many years, the largest clothing house in this section of the state. The valuable services of Mr. J. R. Townsend who has been with the house for nearly twenty years, are retained, and the tailoring department maintains its well-known reputation.

Miss Martha A. Wirt and Mr. Arthur H. Bloom were married at the residence of the bride's mother on Wednesday afternoon at half past four o'clock. Rev. F. P. Manhart performed the ceremony in the presence of about forty guests. The bride and groom entered the room accompanied by Karl and Pauline Wirt, (the little nephew and niece of the bride) and Miss Lilian Barton and Mr. H. Bruce Clark. The dress of the bride was of ashes of roses silk. After the ceremony was performed, and hearty congratulations extended, an elegant supper was served, and at 6:36 Mr. and Mrs. Bloom left on the D. L. & W. train for Scranton, and thence to Neola, Iowa, where Mr. Bloom is engaged in business. A number of guests were present from Danville and Hazleton. The presents were numerous and beautiful and show the high estimation in which the bride is held by her friends here and elsewhere. In her departure Bloomsburg loses one of its brightest and most popular daughters. We extend congratulations and best wishes for the future of Mr. and Mrs. Bloom.

Last Monday morning an accident occured on the N. & W. B. branch of the Pennsylvania road which resulted in the injuring of six men. Two freight trains, traveling in opposite directions at a high rate of speed, came into collision with terrible force at Craig's Crossing, at some distance from Catawissa, between Catawissa and Danville. The engines came together with a crash, and were generally demolished.

Fred Lengderum, the telegraph operator at Riverside, in answer to a query from the next station, replied that train pulled by engine 843 had passed his office, when the fact was it had not. This oversight or negligence on the part of the operator led to the issuing of an order for engine 821 to take possession of the main track. The result was the collision.

When the two engines came together the engineers and firemen jumped down a twenty foot embankment towards the Susquehanna river. They were more or less seriously hurt. Following is a list of the injured: William Henry, engineer 843; Eugene Bright, engineer 821; James Norman, fireman; John Knecht, extra fireman; Ed Carr, brakeman; William Drum, flagman. The two latter are the most seriously hurt.

A Good Hallowe'en Story.

On Monday night a number of boys started out for a jolly good time. They discovered a spring wagon standing in a back-alley and concluded to have some fun with it. Willing hands seized the vehicle and hurried it off to a lumber yard, where they took it apart and removed it, piece by piece to the top of a lumber pile, erstwhile chuckling with delight as they pulled and tugged, thinking of the chagrin of the owner when he discovered his property occupying so high a position. Their labors were completed, and they were about to descend to the ground when they were startled by a voice which uttered these words, "Now, boys, you had better bring it down again," and they were still more startled when they discovered that the voice and the wagon both belonged to the same man. With crest-fallen mien they proceeded quietly to undo their work, and when they got the wagon to the ground, the same voice said, "Now catch hold and run her back to the barn," and they did it. When the vehicle was safely stowed away in the stable of the owner the boys turned and were about to scamper away when once more the voice said in pleasant accents, "Good night boys; You've had lots of fun haven't you? I like to see young folks enjoy themselves, I was a boy once myself. When you want my wagon again let me know."

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Oct. 31, 1887.

An unheard of thing in Wraps and Coats.

Real Seal Cloth Wrap, deep pile, quilted satin linings, trimmed with pendant Seal Cloth fringe, and with real Seal Skin ornaments in front, $8.50. Less than the plush would cost you, making and trimmings thrown in. It is an unexpected turn that puts these things within your reach. The price would be surprisingly little were the Wraps made of German Plush, or Box Plush. They are of one of the best makes of Plush, and not a scrimped piece or stitch in them.

Real Seal Cloth Coat, 40 in. long, lined throughout with quilted satin, 4 real Seal Skin ornaments, $14.50. Nothing of the kind approaching this price has before been offered in Philadelphia.

Workmanship as fine as on our $100 garments

Fancy Black Dress Goods.

Stuffs that are newer to you than Cashmeres or Henriettas; stuffs that vary with the years—new weaves, new loom tricks to produce novel effects. The makers' wit is all the time turned to getting up new styles. Twice as many designs, perhaps, as we ever had before. Patterns for young and gay; patterns for quiet matrons. Whether for giddy or sedate, a richness that charms.

The drift of Fancy Blacks is away from the roughness of last season. Smooth-face effects—brocaded figures (polka dots, flower and leaf shapes, curlycues), moiré bars, neat little ribbed checks, herring-bone stripes, and dozens and dozens of cute armure designs.

Here are some of the stuffs:
Armures—
40 styles, 50c to $1.25.
Fancy Stripes—
35 styles, 75c to $1.25.
Fancy Checks—
18 styles, 85c to $1
You can't go amiss at the Fancy Black Goods counter. Every piece has a pleasing fitness of its own.

Shamrock Suitings. An oddly pretty stuff. Mixtures, yet a method in the mixing. An orderly jumble. Wool only. Rather coarse yarn, rather loosely woven. But the wool is fine and the fibre surprisingly long. Every half inch a warp-thread made bigger and lumpy by a wrapping of gay colored wool. Cords of brightness half hidden in the quieter ground. A sprightly, lively stuff, but modest. Couldn't make a sleepy dress of it. These are some of the effects:
brown red-splashed
olive red-splashed
gray blue-splashed
blue red-splashed
42 in., 37½c. It has been 50c.

German Table Linen. No dressing, pure grass bleach. Soft as if from the laundry. Not the finest, not the smoothest; honest, home-made, substantial Linen. We have sold it for years—tons of it. Can't always keep up to your call—this is the first here for a month:
58 in. cream, 50c
64 in. cream, 56c
64 in. bleached, 75c
72 in. bleached, 85c
Napkins to match, $1.10, $1.50, $2, and $3 a doz.
Never better Linen put over a counter for the money. It will stand looking at and fingering—and wear.

Damask and Huck Towels. Stacks of them. $1 to $3 a doz
And so on. Wherever you come at our Linens there is inspiration in the prices as well as in the goods.

Turkish Towels, plain and knotted fringe, 19x45 in., 25c. Worth double.

Something new—
"Iron Clad" Jerseys.
The name fits. A wear-till-you-are-weary Jersey. Every fibre wool; twisted into the hardest yarn; woven into the firmest ribbed Jersey Cloth we've ever seen; made into Jerseys on patterns drafted from our most perfect styles.

We have been months trying for these Jerseys—the stuff first, then the shapes and the finish. You were not to see one until our try time was over. They are here. We believe them the best and strongest Jerseys ever offered at a medium price. Narrow stripes, $2.50.

The best $7 Blanket we know of in New York, from the best Blanket house in New York, has ten per cent. of cotton in it and weighs 5 lbs. Our $5 Blanket is all wool, exactly the same size, and weighs 6 lbs.
The maker's price for our $5 Blanket is now $5.10 by the case.
But you don't have to go to New York to learn where dollars are the biggest in Blankets.

Scarlet Blankets. More sorts to pick from than ever before. The least $2.75, then up and up to an extra large 9-pounder at $8.50.

Opera, Field and Tourist Glasses from the first Paris makers:
Black Morocco—
with 6 lenses, $4 to $10
with 12 lenses, $9.50, $11.50, $12.50, $15
White or Black Pearl—
6 lenses, with gilt tubes, $10.50, $11.50, $12.50, $14.50, $17.50
Tourists Glasses—
$6.50, $8, $10.50
Field Glasses—
$9.50, $11.50, $14, $17.50

You may learn much of our goods and prices from our Fall and Winter Cataloge, now ready. Send postal card for it.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The worst feature about catarrh is its dangerous tendency to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying the blood.

AGENTS TAKE NOTICE.—A commercial man says, "every traveling man should know the value of Hop Plasters. I wear them for weak back—they give me support and enable me to keep on my feet 12 hours a day."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Crayon Portraits a Specialty!

By way of introducing our Life-Size Crayon Portraits, we will furnish any one a thirty dollar portrait for $10. A small picture, no matter how old, sent by mail or otherwise, accompanied with $5, will secure a portrait finished in the highest style of art, and set in an elegant gilt and silk plush combination frame, 16x20 inches, inside measurement, not the outside of frame, which is 22x26. We give the very best of work, and invite the most critical inspection. The remaining $5 may be paid on delivery of portrait by express, or at our rooms as below. Send along your orders. One fact is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

Don't let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or pneumonia. Or consumption.
Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself. The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.
All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is, themselves." Bottle only 75 cts. Ask any druggist.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S CROWN.
The crown of Queen Victoria consists of diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, set in silver and gold. Its gross weight is 39 oz. 5 dwt. troy. The number of diamonds are 3,352; pearls, 273; rubies, 9; sapphires, 17; emeralds, 11. It is an old saying—Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown. It is better to wear the crown of perfect health and peace of mind through the curative effects of Perrine's Pure Barley Malt Whiskey. For sale by C. B. Robbins, Bloomsburg, Pa.

DRUNKENNESS OR LIQUOR HABIT POSITIVELY CURED BY ADMINISTERING DR. HAINES' GOLDEN SPECIFIC.—It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor habit to exist. What the Neighbors Said.

The neighbors received the news that we wuz goin' to a waterin' place coldly, or with ill-conceived envy.

Uncle Jonas Bently told us he shouldn't think we would want to go round to waterin' troughs at our age.

And I told him it wuzn't a waterin' trough, and if it wuz, I thought our age wuz jest es good a one es any, to go to it.

He had the impression that Saratoga wuz a immense waterin' trough where the country all drove themselves summers to be watered. He is deef as a hemlock post, and I yelled up at him jest as loud as I dast for fear of breakin' open my own chest, that the water got into us, instid of our gettin into the water, but I didn't make him understand, for I hearn afterwards of his sayin', tha', es nigh es he could make out we all got into the waterin' trough and wuz watered.

The school teacher, a young man, with long, small lims, and some pimples on the face, but well meanin', he sez to me: "Saratoga is a beautiful spah."

And I sez warmly, "It ain't no such thing, it is a village, for I have seen a peddler who went right through it, and watered his horses there, and he sez it is a waterin' place and a village."

"Yes," sez he, "it is a beautiful village, a modern retiren city, and at the same time it is the most noted spah on this continent."

I wouldn't contend with him for it wuz on the stoop of the meetin' house, and I believe in bein' reverent. But I knew it wasn't no "spah,"—that had a dreadful flat sound to me. And any way I knew I should face its realities soon and know all about it. Lots of wimmen said that for anybody who lived right on the side of a canal, and had two good cisterns on the place, and a well, they didn't see why I should feel in a sufferin' condition for any more water; and if I did, why didn't I ketch rain water?—From 'Samantha at Saratoga," by Josiah Allen's Wife.

A Cigar Shot Out.

A COAL MINER'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM A MOLLY MAGUIRE'S BULLET.

A group of gentlemen were sitting in a coach yesterday on a train which arrives in this city over the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg at 12:30, telling stories. The last began by telling the group that he was engaged in the coal business, and eighteen years ago had charge of a mine near Mahanoy City. In some way he had incurred the enmity of the Molly Maguires, who passed resolutions to remove him. A desperate scoundrel, but a man who was rated as a first-class shot was appointed to do the dirty work. The assassin concealed himself on a dark blustering night near a path where he knew his victim would pass and waited his appearance.

The speaker said he had always been an habitual smoker, and on the night in question was smoking a cigar from which he had just knocked the ashes before approaching the murderer's place of concealment, put the cigar in his mouth and turned his head, as an unusually strong gust of wind came around a point a head of him, when he heard a shot and simultaneously a bullet whistled past his face and took off the end of his cigar. He turned immediately, and before the purpose of the Mollie could be accomplished he was out of sight. Several years afterward the man who had attempted to murder him was dying and made a death-bed confession, stating that he had been appointed to kill the speaker, and had fired directly at the end of his lighted cigar, but for some unaccountabl reason had missed his mark. As he concluded the narrator drew a sigh of apparent relief and said it was the most narrow escape he ever had, and attributed the saving of his life to his habit of smoking.—Bradford Star.

The Mayor was Cross.

I was in the "Two Orphans" saloon at Eagle Pass City, Wy., one day, engaged in the fatiguing business of leaning against the wall and watching the barkeeper polish the glasses, when a strikingly large man with a ferocious black moustache and a hand the size of a St. Paul man's snowshoe came in and directly to where I stood. I tried to look as if I wasn't doing anything and got one corner of my eye on the side door. The man regarded me scornfully for a moment, then suddenly jumped up and cracked his heels together twice, brought his fist down on the edge of a card table so that it tipped over and rolled away, and with a whoop that jarred the chandelier yelled:

"Stranger, I eat snakes!"

As I remember it, I replied that I had no doubt of it, also that I fully believed he was the only man in the country who did eat snakes, and that I presumed he rather preferred rattlesnakes and yellow headed moccasins, when he made a leap at me and again whooped:

"Stranger, I'm a wolf! Hear me howl!"

I was backing towards the door and trying to look as sociable and agreeable as possible, when he added, with astonishing emphasis:

"I'm a wildcat! I want blood! I want it to drink!"

I was now moving on the door so rapidly as to resemble a dark-colored streak several yards long, when he started for me, howling:

"I'm a man-eater! I'm from Bitter Creek! Gimme some raw snakes! Lemme at him!" All the time kicking the chairs through the air and making the building tremble.

I managed to get through the door and fell across an alley and two vacant lots! Fifteen minutes later when I ventured out on another street, I happened to meet the barkeeper and said:

"What was the matter with that man who tried to kill me at your place?"

"Mayor Everts, you mean, I reckon. O, nothing much; only the Council passed an ordinance that he had vetoed over his head last night and it has made him cross all day."—Chicago Tribune

Deaf Mutes and their Children.

The superintendent at Bellevue home, Toronto, states in his report that 661 children and young people have attended the institution, and not one of them had deaf-mute parents, and of the pupils who had from time to time intermarried not one, to his knowledge, had a deaf-mute child. "All this is very satisfactory," he says, "and should take away the fear that many parents have of deaf-mute marriages, for much as a mixing up of these with other classes in marriage might be considered desirable, it is not likely to be the case, and a deaf mute girl, trained and intelligent, often makes a happy settlement in life with a well instructed deaf-mute partner.

Rudeness of the Traveling Public.

The other day at dinner the conversation turned upon the selfish rudeness of a portion of the traveling public. One of the persons at the table related this incident: Some months ago the passengers on a night train on a branch railroad were kept awake by the loud and incessant conversation indulged in by two men sitting at one end of the car. There were no sleeping cars attached to the train, and one of the men in the course of their wearisome babble remarked: "It seems to me that a road which doesn't furnish sleepers ought at least to fit up their cars with head rests, such as you find on some of the eastern roads." Whereupon a voice at the other end of the car replied: "Head rests wouldn't help much in this car so long as those two men down at the other end kept on talking." The passengers roared with delight, and one of the two offenders bristled up and declared he'd talk just as much as he pleased, but pretty soon quiet reigned. The passenger who so neatly administered the needed reproof was Edward Everrett Hale.—New York Tribune.

An Omelette of Scorpion.

A curious dish was prepared the other day for a British traveler in Mexico. The attendants served up an omelette and the servant partook very heartily of the dainty morsel, but the traveler mistrusted the food, owing to certain black particles mixed therein. Inquiring into the nature of the suspicious ingredients, he could scarcely believe his own ears when the reply was given, "Oh, those are scorpions," and an investigation proved this to be true, the lower orders in Mexico thus utilizing the young scorpions, which are fug out, hundreds in a nest, their sting being cut off before cooking.

What They Trembled for Out West.

A revivalist in a Michigan town had discoursed on the Bible for two hours and got his audience worked up to the point of enthusiasm.

"Now, my hearers, there is one thing it would be impossible for us to get along without. Who can tell what it is?"

He expected the audience to say "religion," but he discovered that he had mistaken the character of his hearers when a grizzly long-beard arose and said: "Quinine."—Judge.

A Curious Mexican Plant.

Pita fibra, a Mexican product, is found largely in Honduras. It grows in canes from five to twelve feet high and from two to three inches in diameter. Efforts are being made by the Mexican Government to encourage its cultivation. The Indians use it for the manufacture of boots and shoes, nets, fishing lines, halters, and canes. Mats of great beauty, some of them valued as high as $50 each, are made from it. It also makes a good imitation silk.

Mason & Hamlin

Organs and Pianos.

The Cabinet Organ was introduced by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy over all others, having received Highest Honors at all Great World's Exhibitions since 1867.

The Improved Mode of Stringing Pianos, invented by Mason & Hamlin in 1882, is a great advance in piano construction, experts pronouncing it "the greatest improvement in pianos in half a century." Piano circular, containing 300 testimonials from purchasers, musicians, and tuners, and Piano and Organ Catalogues, free.

PERRINE'S PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY.

DISTILLED from selected Barley Malt and guaranteed to be chemically pure and free from injurious oils and acids often contained in alcoholic liquors. It is especially adapted to persons requiring a stimulating tonic, Consumptives being greatly benefitted by its use. Recommended by leading physicians as a Diuretic, Nervine, Tonic and Alterative. For Consumptives it is invaluable. PERRINE'S PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY insures a return of vigor to the stomach, a good appetite, a rich and abundant blood and increased flesh and muscular tissue. A stimulant mild and gentle in effect. Dyspepsia, Indigestion and all wasting diseases can be entirely conquered by the use of Perrine's Pure Barley Malt Whiskey. It is a tonic and diuretic and a powerful strengthener to the entire system. PERRINE'S PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY has proved a medicinal protection to those who pursue their avocations in the open air and whose daily work calls it exceptional powers of endurance. Ask your nearest druggist or grocer for it. PERRINE'S PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY revives the energies of those worn out with excessive bodily or mental effort and acts as a safeguard against exposure in wet and rigorous weather. It will drive all malarious diseases from the system. Hard workers of every vocation and persons whose sedentary life renders prone to Dyspepsia find in Perrine's Pure Barley Malt Whiskey a powerful invigorant and helper to digestion. PERRINE'S PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY without unduly stimulating the kidneys increases their flagging activity, counteracts the effects of fatigue, hastens convalescence and is a wholesome and prompt diuretic. Watch the label! None genuine unless bearing the signature

The analysis as it appears by the Label on every bottle. I have carefully analyzed the PURE BARLEY MALT WHISKEY made by M. & J. S. Perrine and find it entirely free from fusel oil, rancrous metals and acids and is absolutely pure."—Signed, Camillia Arthur Mailer, Graduate of the Universities of Munich, Geneva and Wetzbaden

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS AND ALL DEALERS. jan 8:

The doctor and the letter-carrier are not talking about a case of serious illness. They have simply suspended work to discuss the merits of their shoes. The letter-carrier says the James Means $3 Shoe is the best in the world. The doctor denies it, and says that the James Means $4 Shoe is better. Considering the merits of each, they are both right.

Button, Lace and Congress Shoes. Ask your retailer for the JAMES MEANS $4 SHOE or the JAMES MEANS $3 SHOE, according to your needs. Positively none genuine unless our stamp appears plainly on the sole.

JAMES MEANS $4 SHOE

Will not wear so long as the

JAMES MEANS $3 SHOE,

Because it is made for men whose occupations are such as to lead them to call for a better and more dressy shoe than the JAMES MEANS $3 SHOE. Our $3 Shoe has established for itself a permanent reputation for comfort and durability such as no other shoe has ever known in the history of the trade. No competitors are able to approach it. The James Means $4 Shoe is light and stylish, and it is as durable as any shoe of its weight ever manufactured. We confidently assert that in every vital respect the James Means $4 Shoe is equal to the hand-sewed shoes which have hitherto been retailed at $6 or $7. It has a Dongola top and seamless calf vamp. It has a perfectly smooth bottom inside. It fits like a stocking, and requires no "breaking in," being perfectly easy the first time it is worn.

James Means and Co.'s Shoes were the first in this country to be extensively advertised. If you have been disappointed in other advertised Shoes, your experience ought to teach you that it is safer to buy shoes made by the leaders of a system, rather than those made by the followers. These shoes are sold by the best retailers throughout the United States, and we will place them easily within your reach, in any State or Territory, if you will send us a postal card.
